Holiday Decorating With Chocolate

Designers reveal their holiday decorating secrets in new holiday DVD

Irvine, CA - November 21, 2005 - During the holidays, interior designer Pamela Green throws calorie counting out the window and indulges in her favorite holiday pastime – all things chocolate. She even decorates with chocolate! This is one of the many creative holiday decorating and entertaining ideas found on “Christmas Decorating: The Art of Holiday Design”, a holiday DVD released by Journey4 Productions.

For holiday entertaining, designer Pamela Green dazzles her guests with chocolate-covered candles, an instant conversation starter. “They’re so easy to do,” explains Green. “And the ‘clean-up’ is delicious!”

To create chocolate-covered candles, lay white tapered candles on a cookie sheet. Using a whisk, drizzle streams of melted chocolate in a zigzag pattern to create an abstract “chocolate web” over the candles. Coat one side first. When the chocolate has solidified, flip and repeat. As the candles burn down, the chocolate releases its enticing aroma.

A holiday topiary covered with delectable chocolate truffles graces the designer’s foyer. She covers a 24” Styrofoam cone with decorative gold foil and inserts the truffles with wood toothpicks, alternating dark, milk and white chocolates. As guests depart and pick off the chocolates, as surely they will, the lovely gold foil is revealed. “Christmas Decorating: The Art of Holiday Design” features 10 Christmas decorating segments (including Pamela Green’s chocolate decorating tips), 7 holiday entertaining segments plus a brief history of the Christmas tree.
